

State of the Airline Industry in the Americas

From Impact to Recovery

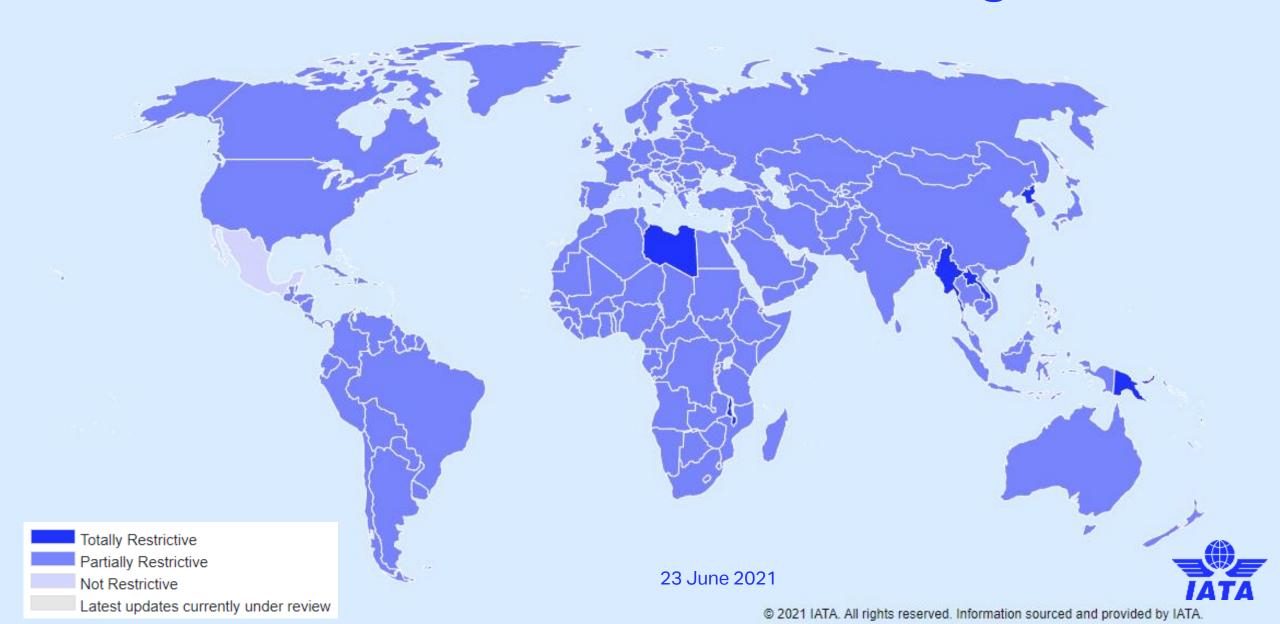

Peter Cerdá

Regional Vice President, The Americas

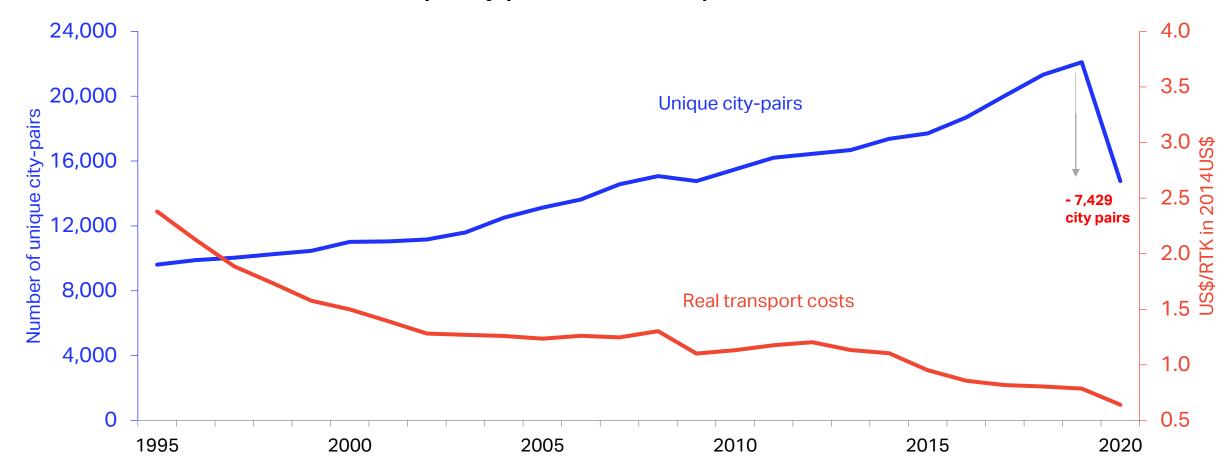

Global Picture: COVID-19 Travel Regulations

Loss of 7,500 global city-pairs amid COVID-19

Demand shocks do not usually have long-lasting impacts

Previous shocks cut 5-20% from RPKs but recovered after 6-18 months

Travel and Tourism will return to the Americas. But when and how fast?

Impact of COVID-19 on Air Transport in the Americas

Recovery will depend on Industry Collaboration

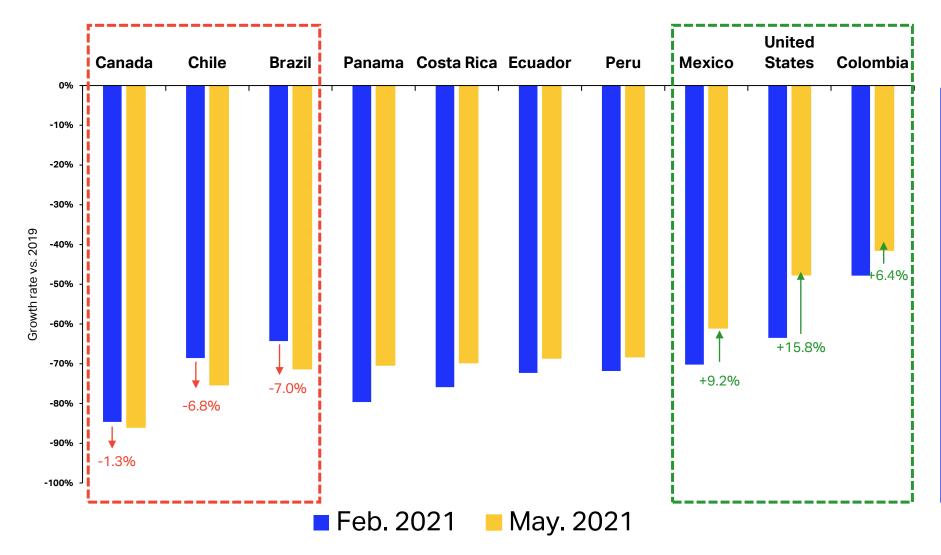

COVID19: Short-term response

- Implementation of biosafety measures
 - Following global best practices (ICAO CART)
- Joint Restart Roadmaps
 - Provide planning certainty to industry
- Systematic testing
 - Acceptance of antigen testing
- Vaccination roll-out plans
 - Exemption of vaccinated passengers from entry restrictions regardless of nationality
- Global standard for health passport
 - IATA Travel Pass & others

Status of International Operations in the Americas

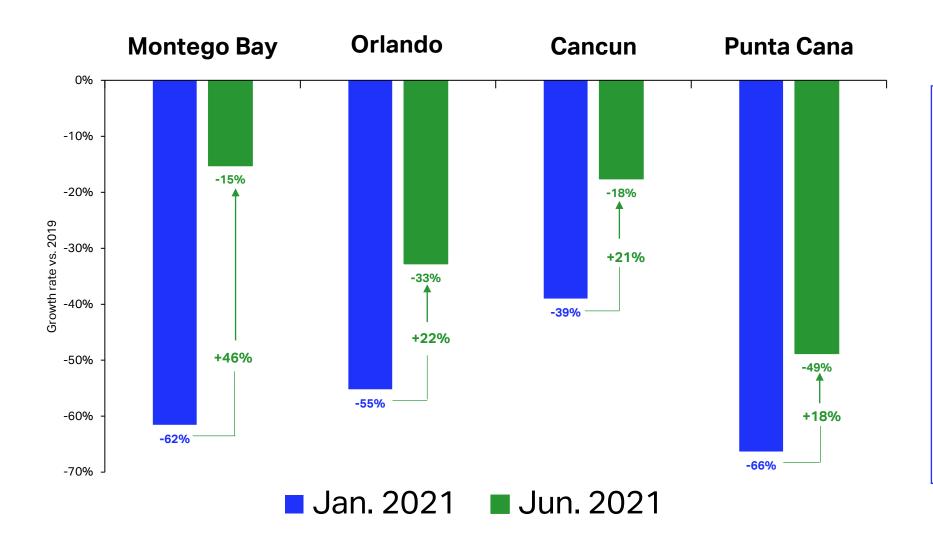

Impact of restrictions on bookings in the region vs. 2019

- The more open borders are, the more dynamic the recovery of demand
- Countries that test have seen a gradual recovery of demand over the past months
- Countries that tighten restrictions have underperformed.

Recovery of Tourism Destinations across the region

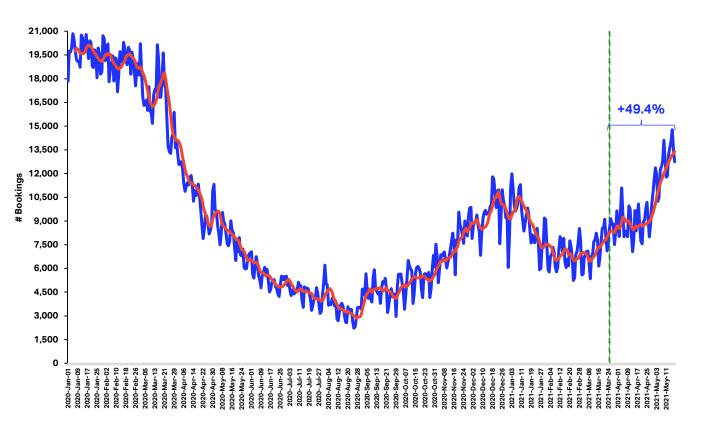

- Tourism
 destinations are increasing their bookings.
- Pent-up demand plus lower restrictions in the selected countries, have been a key variable for boosting the demand.

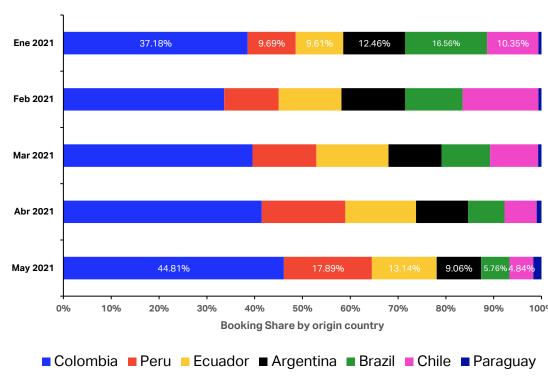

Bookings increased by 49% from South America to Florida

2021 Forecast

North America: $5B in losses

Latin America: $4B in losses → Last profitable year: 2017

Urgent need to make air transport more competitive in the Americas

Conditions of 2019 are unacceptable

INFRASTRUCTURE

- · Capacity Constraints
- Airspace Optimization
- Slots
- Invest in Aging Infrastructure

COMPETITIVENESS

- Cash Cow Industry
- Taxes & Charges
- Lack of Transparency
- Need to Decrease Taxes

REGULATORY FRAMEWORK

- Politically Motivated
- Passenger Rights
- Harmonized Policies
- Follow Global Best Practices

ENVIRONMENTAL SUSTAINABILITY

- Lead Policy Development of Sustainable Aviation Fuels (SAFs) and fuel R&D
- Invest in new Technologies
